ABOUT SALMON FISHING

There are two bills governing the fishing of salmon in the Columbia river before the people, to be voted next Monday. The one provides for the protection of food fishes, the maintenance of hatcheries for the propagation of salmon and other food fishes; the fixing the length of nets that may be used, and the employment of a fish commissioner and deputies. This bill provides that the expense incurred in establishing and carrying on hatcheries, employing fish warden, etc., shall be borne by those engaged in catching and canning salmon. It is the bill the cannerymen want, because it protects the fish while increasing the catch, and they are willing and anxious to pay all the expenses incurred in protecting the industry. It is a just and sensible bill and will pass.

The other is a bill gotten up at Astoria, not in the interest of Astoria, but in the interest of the gill net trap and seine fisherman. It provides that no salmon shall be caught above the mouth of the Columbia, does away with the fish wheels and, in fact, is a bill to prevent American citizens catching salmon and providing for the industry being turned over to a class of people, mostly Finlanders, the larger part of whom are not citizens of the United States and practically none of whom are citizens of Oregon. A class of men who fish during the season, then go to Puget Sound, the Sacramento, and some to deep-sea fishing until the season opens again. It is manifestly unjust and should be passed. Should it pass it would prohibit the catching of fish by wheels, as there are none below the mouth. This means that it would deprive valueless property worth at least $1,000,000. Mr. Warren with many wheels and his big cannery, Warrendale, has invested more than $400,000; the McGowans, also on the Cascades, $200,000; the Carters Bros., near The Dalles, $50,000; Taft, at Collio, $50,000, and the many small wheels would amount in value to more than $100,000. Are the people of Oregon willing to destroy that amount of valuable property, at the behest of the fishermen of Astoria?

The lower river fishermen say, "The wheels are ruining the industry." And yet the statistics show that the fishermen near the mouth of the river catch on an average 95 per cent of all the salmon taken from the Columbia; and in 1904, actually caught 98.7 per cent. How can a catch of 5 per cent destroy the salmon, and a catch of 95 per cent be harmless?

Again, the Astoria fishermen say, "If the fish are caught by the wheels how can they reach the spawning grounds?" I frankly confess that I do not know, but I am equally ignorant of the manner in which they will reach the spawning grounds if they are caught at Astoria.

There are 570 miles of gill nets on the lower river, and some of these nets are a mile long. Think of it: 570 miles of net stretched across the Columbia, all of which a salmon must successfully dodge before he can start up the river. The tender-hearted Finlanders feel sorry for any fish that escapes them and insists upon it being allowed to reach the spawning grounds, but he regrets exceedingly to see one get by their nets.

Besides these nets, the mouth of the river is filled with fish traps placed in the shallower waters, and they are the most deadly contrivance for the salmon that was ever invented.

Backing up their contention the lower river fishermen have procured an opinion from David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford university, who recommends abolishing wheels and gives as one of the reasons, "because it takes the work from the fisherman."

As a matter of fact it takes more men to catch a given amount of salmon with a wheel than in any other way. And again if the taking work away from the men is a good reason, the learned president should advocate the return to harvesting grain with a sickle and threshing it with a flail; to doing away with cotton and woolen factories and a return to the good old days of the hand loom.

As a matter of fact a salmon has a hundred chances to get by the wheels on the Columbia that he has to escape the nets. There are hundreds of runways where the fish can go round the wheels even at the most favorable points, and they can go under them, but to escape the nets he must go under for he cannot go around without going ashore.

The one bill says let the fish get into the river and do not drift out over the bar to catch him; shorten nets down to 900 feet in length, give the fish a chance one-half as good as he has at the wheels, permit us to manage the hatcheries and pay the bills and the old days of a million cases a year pack will return.

The Astoria bill says, if any fish gets by as he is entitled to his freedom, and no one else should be allowed to disturb him.

If you believe in fair play, don't turn all the fish in the Columbia river over to Astoria fishermen.

A STEADY DRAIN

Sick Kidneys Weaken the Whole Body—Make You Ill, Languid and Depressed.

Sick kidneys weaken the body through the continual drainage of life-giving albumen from the blood into the urine, and the substitution of poisonous uric acid that goes broadcast through the system, sowing the seeds of disease. Loss of albumen causes weakness, languor, depression. Uric poisoning causes rheumatic pain, nervousness, nausea, cricks in the back, gravel and kidney stones. The proper treatment is a kidney treatment, and the best remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills. Great Salem cures prove it.

A. J. Wood, of 250 Cottage St., Salem, Ore., says: "Kidney and bladder trouble became so bad with me about two months ago that I was obliged to do something to ease the suffering. It bothered me most in the morning and perhaps for two or three hours after getting up. Too frequent action of the kidney secretions was very annoying and embarrassing. I had known people who had received the best of results from Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a box of them at Dr. Stone's drug store. Before I had used one box I was completely free from every symptom of the trouble. The kidneys were regulated and my general health became better. I can hardly express in words the good opinion I have of Doan's Kidney Pills for cases of kidney complaint or backache."

The Most Common Cause of Suffering.

Rheumatism causes more pain and suffering than any other disease, for the reason that it is the most common of all it's, and it is certainly gratifying to sufferers to know that Chamberlain's Liniment will afford relief, and make rest and sleep possible. In many cases the relief from pain, which is at first temporary, has become permanent, while in old people subject to chronic rheumatism, often brought on by dampness or changes in the weather, a permanent cure cannot be expected; the relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Dr. Stone's drug store.
